Paint touch-up kit

Abstract

A paint touch-up kit, including a carrier having a right side, left side, front end, back end, bottom and handle, the bottom defining depressions, having a supply area and having a divider; and at least one container having a bottle, a cap, paint and a label, the cap having a flip top and a lip, the at least one bottle being positioned cap down friction fit inside one of the depressions such that the depression precludes the container from tipping over during use and yet allows removal for use and a method of touching up paint, including preparing the surface to be painted; selecting a brush from a carrier; removing a container from the carrier by lifting the cap end of the container out of a depression defined in the carrier; opening the flip top of the cap to access paint; applying the paint; and storing the container and paint contained therein, cap-side down.
